

FORESTS TODAY & FOREVER

2022 Annual Report

Engaging Students in the Field

1,257
STUDENTS LEARNED IN THE WOODS!

1,257 elementary and middle school students from ten schools learned in the outdoors as they visited a working forest to explore the many benefits of forests and to see sustainable forest practices firsthand. They hiked trails, searched for wildlife, conducted experiments, and learned from forest professionals

Building Awareness of Forest Careers

1,310
EXPOSED
TO FOREST CAREERS!

270 high school students from five school districts learned about forest careers during the "Wood is Good: Forest Sector Career Learning" program. 1,040 middle school students met and interacted with forest professionals during Forest Field Days. Both experiences showcase the exciting jobs in sustainable forestry.

Expanding our Reach to New Audiences

375
INDIVIDUALS REACHED!

We provided field programs to University of Oregon classes. We brought forest fire education to high schools. We partnered with 4-H to offer forest education. We provided an Outdoor School for 6th graders. We created STEM-based forestry education kits for Siuslaw Public Libraries. And more!
